Borst attends PIO training

Nancy D. Borst, communications coordinator for Kingman County, attended Basic Public Information Officer (PIO) training Oct. 2-3 in Olathe.

As the county's public information officer, Borst will work closely with those in public safety and emergency management for the county. She will be responsible for ensuring that the affected public receives accurate and timely information during an emergency.

"I learned that it is important to prepare before an emergency, respond during an emergency and analyze after an emergency," Borst said. "My background as a journalist will be helpful as I fill this role for Kingman County."

The class and lodging were paid for by the Kansas Department of Emergency Management. The course is part of FEMA's Emergency Management Institute Advanced Professional Series. The instructors were Sharon Watson, Kansas Adjutant General's Department PIO, and Tom Erickson, Johnson County Sheriff's Office PIO.
